Ban On Water Use Lifted In East Stroudsburg, Shawnee

Large Sum Granted For Rehabilitation

WILLIAM H. Harman, regional director, Federal Small Business Administration, announced yesterday that "a substantial loan" has been made to the Coates Board and Carlton Co., Inc., for the rebuilding of its Stroudsburg plant at Minisink Hills.

The loan was processed by the Small Business Administration and certified by the Office of Defense Mobilization because products of the firm are classified as essential to the defense program.

Retain Industry

Both Federal officials and company spokesmen noted that the loan was a primary factor in re-establishing the local plant and retaining a $40,000 monthly payroll in this area.

"We believe in mutual cooperation between labor and management," said Chester I. Wilson, company president. "And we recognize our obligation to make every effort to continue operations here."

Wilson said the company will have to spend a minimum of a half-million dollars to get the plant back in operation. Actual damage could run upwards to $750,000, he added.

The company has added its own funds to the amount of the loan, Wilson said, to carry out the rebuilding program.

Rehabilitating Plant

He said the company's 110 employees have all been engaged in the clean-up and rebuilding operations.

"We haven't laid off any help because of the flood," said Wilson, "and we don't anticipate doing so."

"We are trying to do the rebuilding work ourselves without the help of outside contractors to keep our employees working and to do the job as economically as possible."

Wilson disclosed that the company is hoping to resume partial operation no later than Nov. 1. The plant manufactures paper cartons and boxes which are used in wartime for cartridges and other defense materials.

DL&W Plans Resumption Of Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad announced today the cost of restoring its track washed out or damaged in the floods from Hurricane Diane last month would approach seven million dollars—instead of the earlier estimated 10 million.

In what he called "one of the fastest rebuilding jobs in railroad history," Perry M. Shoemaker, president, announced freight service on DL&W's own tracks between the Delaware Water Gap and Scranton would be restored this Friday and passenger service on Sunday. More than 60 miles of line were affected.

Stroud Union Losses Set At $77,000

THE AUGUST 18 flood caused an estimated $77,000 damages to Stroud Union Schools.

This figure was contained in a report given to the Union school board last night by Earl F. Groner, superintendent. Most of the damage, Groner said, was done to the Mores school building in Stroudsburg.

Groner told the board he had prepared the estimate on the request of Ralph G. Swan, acting superintendent of public instruction in Harrisburg.

"We have a possible chance of getting Federal aid for part of the losses, at least, through the offices of the State (public instruction) department," Groner told board members.

The chance of U. S. aid was strong, he pointed out, since only a relatively few school districts were directly affected by the flood. Among these, he noted, were Greene-Dieter-Sterling school and Scranton.

Billion In Appropriations Approved By State House; Senate Okays Business Tax

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14 (AP)—House Republicans, reversing their stand, voted along with Democrats today to send to the GOP-controlled Senate nearly a billion dollars in appropriations suggested by Gov. Leader.

But Rep. Charles C. Smith, House Republican leader, made it clear his Senate colleagues will "suggest itemized reductions" to cut the record $1,800,000,000 budget total.

"We are voting to send these appropriations to the Senate so that they can be revised in a common sense and realistic manner," Smith told the House. "We are not doing this because we have changed our minds."

Tax Bills Approved

Previously the Republican House minority had refused to vote for any appropriation because no tax program has passed.

Appropriations for about 55 million for state-aided institutions required Republican support for House passage. Under the Constitution they must gain 140 votes, 28 more than the Democrats have in the House.

The major appropriation bills provide funds to operate the public instruction, welfare, public assistance and health departments.

Earlier in the day, the Senate voted unanimously to continue 276 million dollars in business taxes for another two years.

The measures, originally passed by the House last Feb. 1 and bottled up by Senate Republicans until just this week, went to the governor.

Stroudsburg Supply Still Not Approved

THE BAN on use of water for human consumption in the area served by East Stroudsburg's municipal water system and the Man-walamink system serving Shawnee - on - Delaware was lifted last night.

The ban still holds in ALL THAT TERRITORY SERVED BY THE MONROE COUNTY WATER SYSTEM IN STROUDSBURG AND VICINITY. YOU MUST STILL BOIL YOUR WATER IF YOU ARE SERVED BY MONROE COUNTY WATER SUPPLY CO.

Bernard Bush, district sanitary engineer, telephoned the release of water for drinking, cooking, etc. to water concerns affected. He also notified The Daily Record that East Stroudsburg and Shawnee section water concerns have passed all the rigid tests.

Flush Water Lines

Flushing out of water lines, especially for those persons returning to homes in the flood district, was strongly advised by J. H. Stoner, flood rehabilitation coordinator in East Stroudsburg.

Water should be allowed to flow from each of the outlets for a period of several minutes, Stoner said.

Roy F. Lloyd, chairman of the water committee, announced simultaneously that the ban could be imposed on the outside use of water during the drought that preceded the flood, is also lifted, effective at once.

Announcement Awaited

Regarding the Stroudsburg and vicinity situation, Mr. Bush expressed hope that an announcement regarding use of that water for drinking purposes can be made within the very near future.

He emphasized that "we cannot and will not take chances" until all tests being made are up to the rigid standards of State Health Department.

These standards, as they are in most states, are the standards of the U. S. Public Health Service. They involve three tests, each progressively more rigid.

Mr. Bush has his staff still working on tests in the Stroudsburg area. Their work, plus the results of laboratory analysis, will govern the district engineer's announcements on Stroudsburg water.

In the meantime, if you are served by Monroe County Water Supply Co. "KEEP RIGHT ON BOILING YOUR WATER."

New Storm Shaping Up

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 14 (AP)—Cuba counted two dead and widespread damage from Hurricane Hilda today while a new tropical storm, one, threatened the northern Leeward Islands and Puerto Rico.

A man and his daughter were killed when Hilda's destructive winds smashed their home in northeast Orient Province and other homes along the Cuban coast were destroyed or damaged as Hilda moved into the Caribbean south of the island republic.

Rains flooded parts of Cuba. One sent hurricane warnings up in several north Leeward Islands and northeast storm warnings were ordered up on the Puerto Rican coast from Arecibo to Humacao.

West Germany Prepares For Return Of Prisoners Russia Promises To Free

BOON, Germany, Sept. 14 (AP)—West German officials rushed preparations tonight to receive the thousands of war prisoners Chancellor Konrad Adenauer says the Soviet Union has promised to release.

Shortly after the 79-year-old Adenauer stepped from the plane that brought him home from his Moscow talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, officials disclosed housed at Camp Friedland, near Goettingen and the East German border.

The Soviets announced in Moscow, meanwhile, that East German Communist Premier Otto Grotewohl, will arrive there Friday for negotiations with Communist leaders on "questions of interest to all sides." It was believed this would include the return of the prisoners and the problem of German reunification.

Verbal Promise

The announcement came as a surprise to observers in Moscow. They expected the Soviets to consult with Grotewohl, but not so soon after the end of the discussions with Adenauer.

Adenauer told welcoming crowds here Bulganin had given him a verbal promise that the German prisoners in the Soviet Union would be returned quickly.

"I do not doubt that Premier Bulganin will keep his word," the Chancellor added.

Carlo Schmid, a member of Adenauer's delegation to the Moscow talks, said in a broadcast tonight that the Russians refused to put the promise into writing. He said they declared that "the word of honor of a Soviet premier must be sufficient."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The State Department broke its official silence on the German-Soviet agreements today with a statement hailing them as a Western victory over "bankrupt" Russian policy toward Germany.

Henry Sydnay, a State Department spokesman, said the significance of the agreements had to be weighed in the light of West Germany's brief history.

Pointing out that the United States, Great Britain and France established the new German republic in 1947 and brought it into the Western Alliance despite Soviet opposition "every step of the way," Sydnay stated:

"The abandonment now by the Soviet Union of its bankrupt German policy is a tribute to the success of the constructive policy which the Western governments and the German Federal Republic have consistently pursued . . ."

Father Of Missing Girl Seeks Volunteers To Help Search For Eight From Camp Davis

AN APPEAL for volunteers to join in a search for the bodies of eight persons still missing from ill-fated Camp Davis was made yesterday by a New Jersey resident who lost his wife and two children at the location.

Raymond L. Winfield, Rutherford, N. J., requested persons willing to join in the day-to-day search to meet daily at 9 a. m. in front of the State Police barracks on Main St.

To Assist in Search

Winfield said he has been accompanied here by his brother-in-law, David L. Palmer, Paterson, N. J., and Robert Hawley and

Stanley Cook, both of Long Island, N. Y.

He said a Little Falls, N. J., contracting firm has loaned him the use of a bulldozer for the search operations.

Children still missing from Camp Davis were identified by Winfield as his own daughter, Karen L. Winfield, 9; James Rutherford, 6; Staten Island; James McCafferty, 9; West Caldwell, N. J.; Bruce Thompson, 15; Jersey City, N. J.; Carol Lawer, 8; East Orange, and William Liebford, 12, said to be the grandson of Rev. Leon Davis, camp owner.

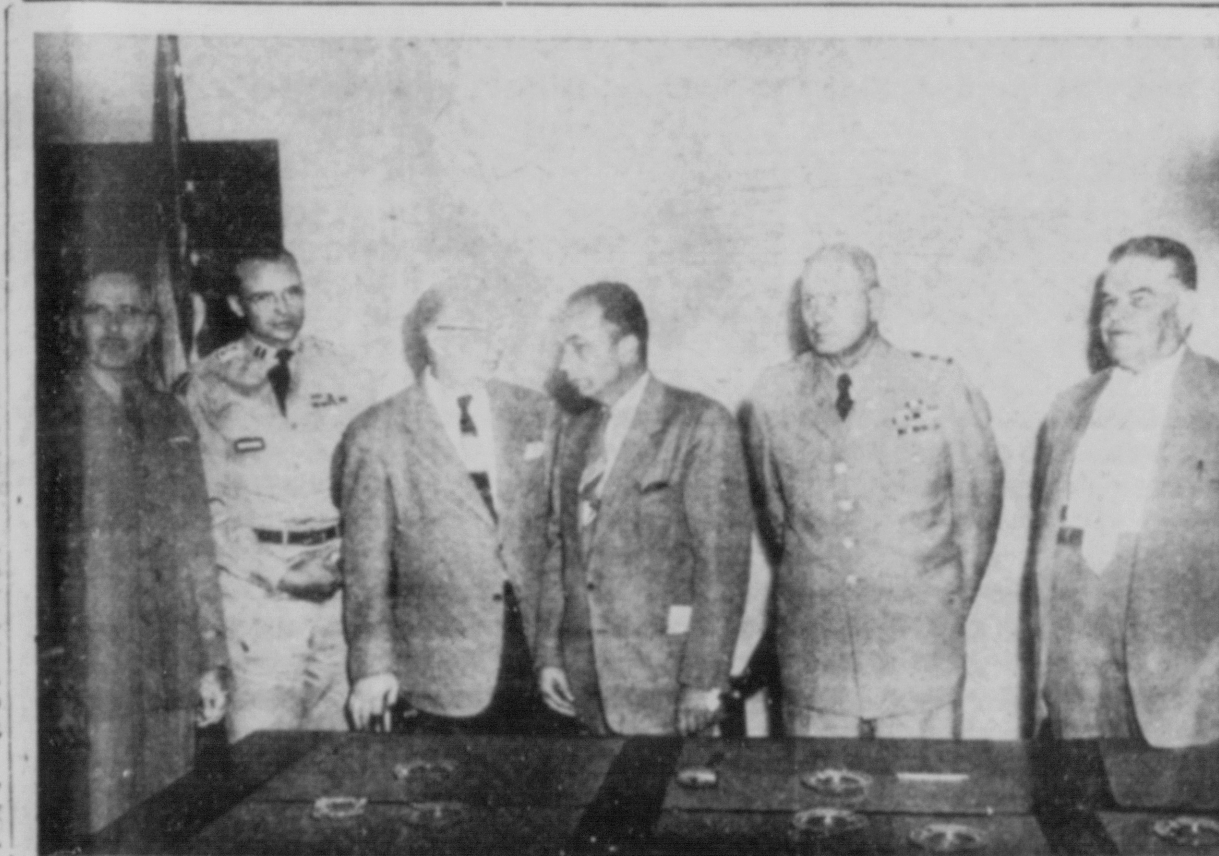

Winfield said Mr. and Mrs. Chris Lawer, East Orange, parents of Carol, also are still missing.

Winfield said the bodies of his wife and son have already been recovered.

Exemplify Great Faith

Meanwhile, nurses working at Stroudsburg Methodist Church yesterday commented on the faith and fortitude of those who lost loved ones in the Camp-Davis tragedy.

"Mr. Winfield came to us for his typographical shots," said one of them. "When he left, he asked us to pray for his family, but we all felt that he should pray for us that we might have a faith like his."

Red Cross Aid Pushes Beyond $200,000 Mark

COUNTING 19 cases approved last night by the Red Cross Advisory Committee of East Stroudsburg, meeting at the Municipal Building, the county total given by the American Red Cross for emergency care and awards for future rehabilitation reached $202,462.70, it was announced by John Hopkins, East Stroudsburg director.

The hard-hit areas of East Stroudsburg, Anasimink and Shawnee have been given individual awards totaling $2,147.34. Within that area 71 homes were totally destroyed; 159 suffered major damage and 240 minor damages.

In all, in that area, there have been 445 applications for aid with 23 still pending. The families have been given applications in these 23 cases but have not yet returned them to the disaster headquarters. There have been 45 cases closed, with emergency help ranging from $10 to close to $1,000.

No Applications Rejected

At this point a question was raised as to whether any applications for Red Cross help had been flatly rejected. The answer was "No." In some cases where food orders were requested by a family no longer in the emergency status the policy was explained to them.

If any case involving rehabilitation, rebuilding or refurbishing should be disapproved by the Red Cross case worker, working with the family, such cases would be reported to the advisory board for its recommendation, it was announced.

The East Stroudsburg Advisory Board with Paul Dellaria as chairman approved nine awards at a previous meeting and 19 awards at last night's meeting after hearing details of the cases, listed by number not by name, from the case worker who had consulted with the family regarding their needs, their resources and the aid necessary from Red Cross grants to bridge the gap.

IN ALL CASES, it was the family's own plan and estimate of its needs which was considered and there was mutual agreement with the family before the case was presented to the advisory committee. The committee last night heard but did not discuss those cases involving less than $750 with the provision that if such cases needed further aid or were dissatisfied with the amount of aid the cases could be reconsidered.

Revision Possible

"Any case can be reconsidered by the advisory committee at any time," it was pointed out, "and revisions can be made according to the new plan."

Many of the cases heard last night reflected the desire of people to help themselves as much as possible, offering to do their own painting or carpentry work, for instance. The human drama of the flood and its consequences were also revealed in the brief case histories: the young couple who had purchased a new home in July only to have it badly damaged and their furniture all lost in August; widows who had lost not only their homes but all of their canned goods; families who not only lost their homes and furniture but the breadwinner's job as well with his employer flooded out.

The case histories also revealed the initiative and doggedness of families in planning for their own rehabilitation with the Red Cross grants filling the gap between their needs and their resources.

Consideration Given

The family's own plans are always considered. It was stressed at the meeting. Families needing furniture, for instance, are referred to the used furniture depot on Day St. to look at the furniture available and whether it would fill their need. If it does not, there is no attempt at persuading them to take it.

Another question which arose was to what extent the Red Cross was reimbursing organizations or firms which had given emergency aid during the early hours of the disaster. The Red Cross has paid all bills presented to them, it was announced, and supplied all food dispensed from feeding stations, canteens or food depots. Much of that food had been donated. Perishables and food not donated has been purchased by the Red Cross.

Attending last night's meeting in addition to Paul Dellaria, chairman, and Carl Secor, secretary, were the following advisory committee members: Sanford L. Cleveland, Mayor Jesse Flory, Rev. Harold Durkin, Harold Rinker, Thomas Kistler, Marvin Abel, Rev. William Wunder, Leon Koster, and Roy Lloyd, with Charles Bensinger, Red Cross chapter chairman also present.

Present to report on their findings were the full staff of the East Stroudsburg disaster headquarters and state and district representatives of the Red Cross.

Gov. Leader Claims Ike 'Not Great'

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14 (AP)—Pennsylvania's Democratic Gov. George M. Leader tonight said President Eisenhower "is not a great president . . . not a leader" and the Democrats will be "very happy to take him on" in 1956.

"To defeat a Richard Nixon for the presidency," Gov. Leader added, "would be like taking candy from a baby's hot, sticky little hand."

Leader addressed a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner, filling a plate originally scheduled for former President Harry S. Truman.

He assailed President Eisenhower's domestic record as irresponsible and his foreign policy as vacillating with "each expedient wind."

The audience also heard the governor tout Eisenhower as "a pen pal of Marshal Zhukov" and for giving "a wedding present to the Soviet marshal's daughter."

U.S. Rejects Red Demand

GENEVA, Sept. 14 (AP)—A Red Chinese envoy demanded today "higher level" talks with the United States. The United States rejected this as premature until Peiping makes good its promises to free American civilians.

The Communist request was made by Ambassador Wang Pingnan at today's session of a six-week-old conference with U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson. Wang also demanded that the West lift its embargo on shipping strategic goods to China. The higher level talks presumably would be between Secretary of State Dulles and Red China's Premier Chou En-lai.

Johnson refused even to discuss Wang's proposals or other political and economic questions until China carries out two promises it made last week to let 22 Americans leave China.

Waterfront Strike Ends

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—An eight-day New York waterfront strike that spread along the East and Gulf coasts ended today. It cost the shipping industry better than eight million dollars in losses.

The striking International Longshoremen's Assn. (I.L.A.) hailed the peace formula—which provides for a citizens' probe of its grievances—as a victory over its mortal foe, the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission. However, the victory claim was questionable. Industry called the formula "face-saving."

The bistate pier-policing commission was the target of the strike, rather than the 170 New York shippers.

Order Temporary Span

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14 (AP)—Joseph J. Lawler, acting chairman of the Delaware River Toll Bridge Commission, today directed the commission to make immediate plans for a temporary span over the river at Easton.

The Weather
Partly cloudy and a little warmer today with a few scattered showers, high 75-80. Some cloudiness with little change in temperature tonight and Friday.

Gen. Sturgis Urges People To Be 'Vocal'

THE U. S. Corps of Engineers has been directed to review their studies of flood control for the Delaware River watershed as a result of the "Diane" - inspired flood disaster here, but it will be from two to four years before direct action is achieved on proper controls "if you people stay vocal," Gen. Samuel Sturgis, chief of the Corps of Engineers told a meeting of regional municipal leaders in Stroudsburg yesterday.

Asked by Rep. Francis E. Warner to meet with local officials and make a survey of flood damages, as well as work done by the Corps of Engineers under Capt. Keith Comstock and his civilian assistant, James Miller, Gen. Sturgis flew into Mount Pocono Airport late yesterday afternoon from New England's flood area. Col. Allen F. Clark, Philadelphia District Engineer and Col. Clarence Renshaw, division engineer, New York City, attended the meeting.

His first action was to meet with representatives of Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Barrett Township and other flood areas here.

Three-Fold Mission

Gen. Sturgis said the mission of the Corps of Engineer in the flood disaster has been three-fold. The first involves cleanup so normal restoration matters may proceed without being hampered. The second is flood control which is authorized.

Gen. Sturgis said the engineers have long urged flood control here and there and continue to urge it, but people forget so soon after a flood hits their area.

"There have been projects authorized, but not built because of lack of support from local people," he disclosed. The support is needed to get appropriations for the work after it is authorized.

Emphasis On Support

"Congress has done a good job, but Congress must have the support of the people to carry through with many of these projects. This year Congress—and I mean all members—appropriated $100 million more in the field of water resources."

"Your own Rep. Walter has played an important role here," Gen. Sturgis said. "He has been in close contact with your problems and in close contact with me. Only recently we completed testimony before the Bureau of the Budget for flood control work."

"But, it's only when the people are vocal, that these things move," he warned.

Gen. Sturgis said there are no projects authorized for the Delaware River watershed now, only the directive to review the flood control studies made over past years by the Corps of Engineers.

Next immediate study will be the cause and effect of Hurricane Diane on North Atlantic and New England States, the general said. For that purpose between $750 thousand and $1 million is sought, he said, and this study will be aided by findings already available to the Philadelphia District office Corps of Engineers.

"I'm not here to kid you, this is a long-range project with many ramifications and problems of local, state and national interests to consider," he said.

"We make our studies and report to Congress on the economic soundness and engineering feasibility of this work, and it's on that that authorizations for the work is based," Sturgis said.

"Then, if you all get behind it and keep your interest vocal and (Please turn to page 5)

Widow Becomes Wedged In Tub

Mrs. Elizabeth Privett, who lives alone, got wedged in. She spent all Monday night, yesterday and last night trying to raise herself and shouting for help.

At 10 a.m. today, a neighbor heard her faint cries and called police. They broke in a window, pulled her out of the tub and took her, barely conscious, to a hospital.

Great New Scholarship Program Boon To Aiding Of Best National Resource

Our greatest national resource, and one which we need never worry about exhausting, is those people who are born with superior minds. Yet in only a few communities do schools give special attention and opportunity to the gifted child, and surveys have disclosed that a surprisingly large number of them do not go on to college.

The great new college scholarship program announced by the National Merit Scholarship Corp. therefore comes at an opportune time and seems to be the answer to a problem that has baffled educators for years—how to find the best students in our high schools and how to make sure they continue their education.

The project is enormous in scope, yet essentially simple. Every secondary school in the nation will be invited to participate.

The most promising candidates in each state will be determined through aptitude tests and college entrance examinations.

And thanks to the $20 million grant from the Ford Foundation and others, at least 4000 students will go to college under the program—aided financially on the basis of individual needs—and will be able to attend any college they choose.

To the poorer states in the union, hard-pressed to provide even a passable school system, this program will be a Godsend. It is in those areas especially where so many bright young people have been unable to go to college, simply because they could not afford to and scholarship funds have been few and small.

But its benefits will accrue to the entire nation and to every community in it.

Owlett, Who Has Been Wearing Two Hats, Might Very Well Drop Both In Pennsylvania

Republican National Committeeman G. Mason Owlett has expressed his willingness to resign from his post as one of the state's representatives in the national councils of the party.

The former state senator, target of many a barbed shaft from many quarters during the past years, is content to remove himself from his place among the seats of the mighty but he appends a couple of demands to such a departure.

He will resign, he says, if there is a state-wide demand developed for new leadership in the Pennsylvania GOP.

And if the other national committee member and officers of the Republican State Committee also resign.

All of which is very interesting, in the light of the Owlett record, for he has been wearing at least two hats in his activities, one as national committeeman from the commonwealth and the other as president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association. The combination of these two has not always been in the best interests of the state.

Wearing the mantle of the elderly Joseph R. Grundy, patron saint of the PMA, Mr. Owlett has zealously endeavored to perform with the political skill of his mentor, an achievement in which he has not been singularly successful.

In view of the fact that the two posts have not produced the most desirable results for the Republican party in Pennsylvania, it would seem quite appropriate for Mr. Owlett to divest himself of the one he now offers to resign. But, there seems no honest reason why he should tie a string to the offer.

If he really believes his resignation will be in the best interests of his party, the way for his departure is clear.

George Sokolsky Says...

Bought Elections Menace To Free Institutions, Balance Of Power

Whenever the subject of bought elections is mentioned, the reply seems to be a shrug of the shoulders. The assumption is that there will always be dishonest men and that no system can be developed which will prevent individuals from passing money to candidates for public office under the table.

It is no secret in New York, although it probably cannot be proved without the power of subpoena, that so-called minority groups do support favored candidates by cash contributions of which no record is kept by the giver or the recipient. Some of this money is collected from reputable people in New York, men who would blush and be chagrined that anyone knows a few of the details, amounts, and to whom the money was passed.

It is all so mysterious, like little boys smoking their first cigarette behind a barn door. These people have been led to believe that the collector, himself a man of considerable wealth, has so mastered the art of secrecy that his very existence is deniable.

The assumption is by this means a group of liberals will be in Congress to protect the imagined interests of this group. Men feel important when they do such things.

There is no use pillorying these stout persons who one day will undoubtedly be called by some Congressional committee investigating campaign costs. They give to Republicans and Democrats, to the National Committee for an Effective Congress, to anybody that says he hates Hitler, the dead Nazi, whose ghost rides Park Avenue in New York, particularly in the Waldorf-Astoria where these violations of the law are plotted and planned.

If such a man as Frank Costello passes money under the table to a candidate for public office, the recipient would be smeared for life as an associate of gangsters, but when a manufacturer or a merchant does the same thing, it is only a gentlemanly act, indiscreetly accomplished. Yet there is not a man who gives this kind of money to a candidate or his representative who does not know, at the time of the commission of the deed, that he is violating the law. It is to be assumed that he violates the law for good and sufficient reason, which satisfies his conscience and puffs up his ego, and not only to help along a deserving aspirant for public office.

The entire question of elections ought to be studied by some body outside the Congress with the power of subpoena. Without the power of subpoena, no study can be competent or complete. It would be interesting to see how many so-called celebrities would be advised by learned counsel to plead the "Fifth Amendment" were they called to testify.

The American national election grows increasingly important as it is ridiculed not only by the Communists but by many intellectuals who feel that in many respects the chosen representatives of the people are inferior to the experts who might be selected from the universities and out of the civil service. We rarely hear the phrase, "representative government," which is what ours is. Westbrook Pegler recently referred derisively to the type of person who is elected to the British House of Commons, but no matter how the composition of that parliamentary body is analyzed, it does represent every element in the British population. It does not attempt to professionalize representation by insisting that there can be a conflict of interests. A brewer remains a brewer and speaks as one.

That is the basic assumption with regard to our own Congress. If Emanuel Celler is not to the liking of some Southerners, he nevertheless is as representative of Brooklyn as the Dodgers. That is what the institution is—representative.

Congress needs to develop greater stature than it has had since Franklin D. Roosevelt became President. Roosevelt overwhelmed and reduced the Congress. Many youngsters in this generation assume that the President is superior to the Congress; that he possesses some authority of leadership and that Congress is bound to follow his lead. The separation of powers is important for the maintenance of our free society. Only if men of independence and stature are elected to Congress will it be possible to restore the authority of that body and justify the elective processes of our country. The bought election is a menace to free institutions and professionalizes what should be representative.

Is to open a new 400-acre suburban park where only English will be spoken. It will have Kelly pool tables and cheeseburgers with catsup. All the rowboats will be painted red, white and blue and bear such names as "Bunker Hill," "Revere," "Custer" and "Concord Bridge." (The Russians are shooting the works in this drive for American friendship.)

Dear Sir:

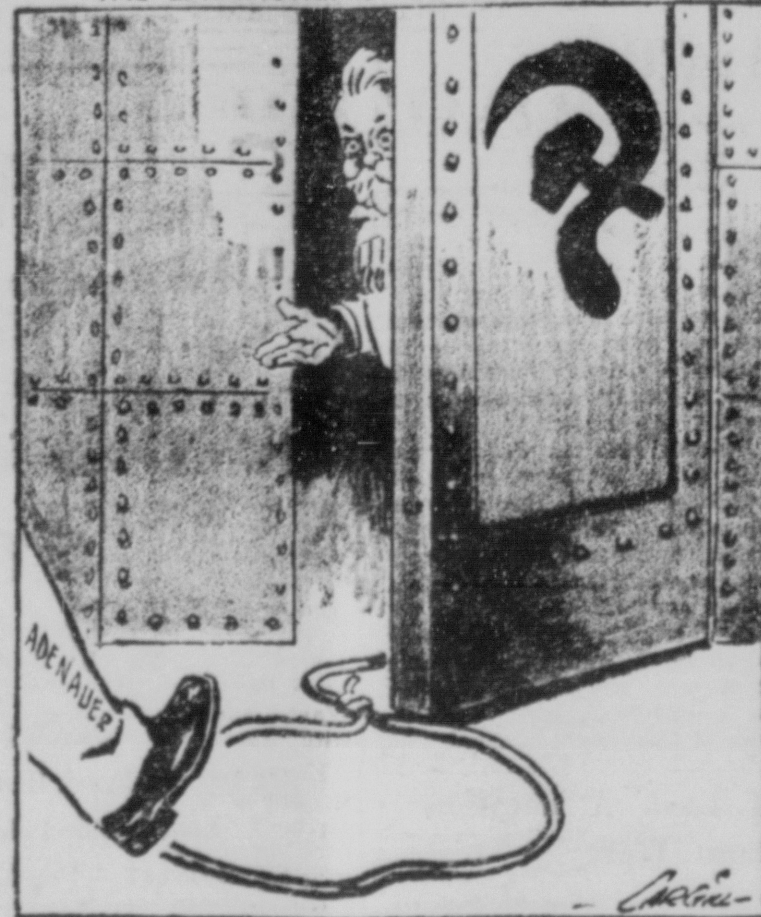

I was one of those hit by the flood who was fortunate enough to have no loss of life in my family. My home, however, was severely damaged.

What I want to do is try in some small measure to say thanks to those who have aided me cleanup and restore my place. I want particularly to thank the Red Cross, East Stroudsburg's police department, the members of the Fire Department, borough council and all my friends.

My home is at 136 Lenox Avenue, East Stroudsburg.

My America

Man Should Not Teach Women How To Drive

Experts say it is better for a man not to teach his own son or daughter (or wife) how to drive an automobile.

The experts are right. But that isn't going to keep most men from doing it. Why should they put out money to train driving instructors when they are quite competent to do the instructing themselves, without cost?

The answer to that one is easy. Most self-satisfied fathers are not quite as competent drivers as they think they are. And even if they should be, possibly good drivers it doesn't follow that they are good teachers.

Some of them don't even have the necessary patience to teach somebody else their own mistakes. What's more, teaching a novice how to duplicate a veteran's faults is seldom "without cost."

Teaching a teen-ager to drive a car is very hard on an adult's system. It puts a terrific strain on his intellect and disposition and may tie knots in his viscera.

The main reason for this is that for a teen-age pupil the learning period is over before the teacher gets nicely started. Once around the block on his own power and the young driver is no longer "learning." He has already learned, is pleasantly surprised to discover how easy it was, and is now only "practicing."

Even the practicing is commanding only a fraction of his attention. Most of his mind is busy thinking about how devil-may-care he looks to other teen-agers along the right-of-way and to formulating a propaganda campaign aimed at the day when he can have his own car.

Meanwhile the suddenly superfluous parental instructor jams his heels against the floorboards, holds his breath at the near-sideways and wonders how much more it would cost to have his collision insurance switched from $50 to $10 deductible.

When he gets safely back home to his easy chair he also ponders with some amazement the fact that there is a lot more to driving an automobile than he has realized for many a year. Until he undertook to tell a beginner how to do it he wouldn't have believed the process involved so many quick and important decisions and movements which have become so habitual for the experienced driver that he doesn't even know he's making them.

How to judge distances, how to tell when the wheels are in the right place to give ample clearance on both sides, where to start turning to get into the driveway without barking the tree—these and a hundred other details are things the average driver never really stopped to analyze himself, let alone put into words anybody else could follow. They can be taught, but learning them is a little like learning to play the violin.

"You're reducing because of a new dress? I'm reducing because of a new HUSBAND."

Senator Says We've Not Won Delinquency Fight

Robert S. Allen is on vacation. In his absence, his column today is by Senator Estes Kefauver on the tragic and alarmingly increasing problem of juvenile delinquency that is afflicting every part of the country. Senator Kefauver is chairman of the special Committee to Investigate and Study the Problems of Juvenile Delinquency, and what he writes on this widespread subject is of national importance and interest.

Washington, September 14: I wish it were possible for me to say that we have won the fight against juvenile delinquency. We have not.

I can say, however, that, judging from editorial comment, we have dispelled much public apathy about the problem. We have succeeded in alerting an increasing number of our citizens to the condition in their own communities.

We have also been able to provide them with some answers to their problems through our studies and reports. As our studies continue, we shall be more and more able to provide them with information necessary to wage a successful campaign against juvenile delinquency.

The enormity of the problems involving our youth is best illustrated by the fact that last year nearly half a million children came before judges in our juvenile courts. This was a 10-percent rise in only one year.

This means that approximately 1,500,000 children came into conflict with the law in 1954, since it is reliably estimated that only one in three delinquents who have contact with the police comes before the juvenile court. The other two are handled without the final step of seeing the judge.

Recently the FBI reported that children under 21 commit 72.6 percent of all burglaries; 26.1 percent of all robberies; 24.2 percent of all reported rapes. And, of all those arrested for violation of the liquor laws, one in four is a juvenile.

Perhaps the truest indication of the seriousness of the juvenile delinquency picture is found on the front pages of your newspaper. It is the rare community indeed, that has not had an alarming growth of juvenile crime on its own streets. These newspaper stories dramatize another FBI finding—the nature of juvenile crime is becoming more serious.

An ever-increasing number of young people are being arrested for the more serious criminal acts.

Psychiatrists have told the Committee that the crime and horror comic books and the violent television and motion-picture shows probably siphon off some abnormal aggressive tendencies, thus leaving the cause to fester unnoticed beneath the surface, a cause which may suddenly explode into violent crime. In other words, a childish prank can be transformed into a violent crime.

It is against this background that the Senate first commissioned the Committee to look into the serious threat of juvenile delinquency. At that time three goals for the study were set:

First, to determine the extent and character, the causes, and contributing factors of juvenile delinquency.

Second, to focus public attention on the problem, and Third, to judge the adequacy of federal laws to deal with juvenile delinquency and prepare legislation where necessary.

To achieve these goals, the Committee sought the support of qualified citizens all over the country. Top men were loaned to us. A staff of professionals was recruited to conduct the investigation. Emphasis was placed upon finding both scholars who theorized about the problem, and social workers who actually went out and put theory into operation.

Many professional organizations and universities are now assisting the Committee's staff to interpret its findings.

Television was a particular topic for consideration in our study. At our hearings, we heard from the leaders in the television industry, their critics, and those who have conducted surveys of the mass media. In Los Angeles, we heard those engaged in motion-picture production. This study was, in reality, an extension of our television study, for the basic principals applying to television also apply to motion pictures.

Both the motion picture producers and the advertisers have finely worded codes, but too often these codes are violated. When they are violated, so are the minds and sensibilities of our children.

The predominance of brutality in both movies and television is making our nation's youth insensitive to human suffering. They are becoming so accustomed to an overwhelming amount of crime and violence that each and pain are becoming meaningless.

One of the most shocking of our investigations revealed the extent to which pornography is reaching even our very young children, and the terrible influence such filth is having on their conduct.

From testimony received by us, we know that this pornography is reaching the hands of children. In many instances, children are using their lunch and allowance money to pay for this filth.

These thoroughly nasty materials portray the abnormal as normal. They are sold to children by adults. Psychiatrists told us that much of the pornography was deliberately geared to the young and sexually inquisitive mind.

The perversion of the individuals who produce this material was brought home to us with startling emphasis when we learned that they no longer rely solely upon adults to participate in the scenes involving sex which they record on motion picture film and still photographs. Teen-agers are being enticed into participating as well, led on, in many cases, by unscrupulous adults exploiting their innocence. In one extreme case, children as young as four had participated in abnormal sexual conduct before the camera.

Forms For Doe License

—by H. G. Heller

PENNSYLVANIA'S Hunters may now get applications for licenses to hunt antlerless deer during the two-day season, December 12-13. Secretary of Revenue Gerald A. Gleason announced today.

State Quota
The state-wide quota for licenses is 240,250, and the applications have been sent to county treasurers in 66 of the state's 67 counties.

Only Philadelphia is excluded. In addition, applications for licenses may be obtained from any one of the 1874 local agencies who issue hunting and fishing licenses for the Commonwealth.

The licenses will go on sale Monday, September 26, and will be available only at the county treasurer's office at the Court House of the county seat.

The fee is $1.15 and will permit the owner to hunt ONLY in the county where it is issued. Non-resident hunters may not purchase the antlerless licenses until 30 days before the season.

County Quota
Warren, McKean and Elk counties each will receive 12,000 licenses, the largest individual distribution under the quota. Delaware and Montour counties with 500 licenses each receive the smallest allocation. Monroe County will receive 5,500 licenses.

Because of the heavy demand for the antlerless deer licenses, hunters are urged to get their applications completed early.

The North Star will remain our polar star for centuries more. About 2,000 years from now, the star Gamma Cephei will probably be our pole star.

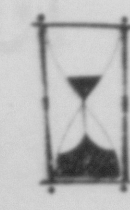

Most fish swim with a motion which may be compared to that of an oar when a boat is sculled.

A hybrid rice has been developed which may double the yields of Asian fields.

Much of the pornography business operates because of loopholes in the federal law. Now, thanks to the action of Congress, some of the loopholes have been closed. The Committee has proposed additional legislation to further tighten the federal grip on the purveyors of filth to our children.

However, much of today's juvenile delinquency must be controlled on the local level. Toward that end the Committee will conduct further investigations in a number of major areas. Our work has only been partially completed. Much important work remains to be done.

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York—I met what surely must be the most patient woman in the world.

She's an attractive, blonde (with red eyes, yes!) woman named Gladys Hoene, yet I qualify as an expert in patience because she teaches movie kids. Not how to make movies. Things like Latin, Greek, German and mathematics.

"Now, don't go running down child actors," she said as I opened my mouth to do just that thing, being the world's No. 1 foe of child actors, "because I've been teaching them for going on 25 years now, and if you must know, I think that by and large they're brighter, more entertaining and occasionally even more charming than average kids."

Mrs. Hoene, who is married to an electrical engineer and has two children (and I note cynically that she hasn't permitted THEM near a movie camera), is resident teacher at Universal-International's studios on the West Coast, and as such she has pounded algebra and fourth-year English into the heads of some 1,200 to 1,500 pupils a year. She's taught such as Judy Garland, Elizabeth Taylor, Piper Laurie, Ann Blythe, Deanna Durbin, Donald O'Connor, et al, and recently has been in New York with 9-year-old Tim Hovey, the child star of U-I's "The Private War of Major Benson," who's been on hand to help publicize that film.

Gladys is full of memories of the children who've passed through her classes. She remembers Donald O'Connor and Ann Blythe as among her brightest, although O'Connor never really cared much for book learning. She remembers beginning tentatively with Judy Garland, who was around 13 or 14 and had to take summer classes and didn't think much of it, but later becoming fast friends with her. She recalls the time she had Elizabeth Taylor and how the director of her first picture indignantly wanted the little girl to "wash the make-up off her face" when it was just her high English coloring and not rouge or powder at all.

Only once in a while, she says, does a fat-headed child or his doing parents give her trouble. Usually, the child actor forgets all about his emotion, once he leaves the set and drops over to her "little red schoolhouse" on the lot for a couple of hours' schoolwork. When he can't come to regular classes, incidentally, Gladys goes over to the set and crams in 20 minutes or a half hour's work between takes.

The precocity of the children never fails to amuse her. "We bought little Tim a small pool table the other day when we got into New York," she told me, "and a grin, 'and do you know, the next day he was being interviewed by a woman reporter and he stared at her and said, 'How about a little pool? Do you play snooker or Chicago?' And she ended up playing pool with him, at that!"

It's a comfortable living—she makes more than $150 weekly at it—and Mrs. Hoene has been doing it ever since MGM sent out a hurry call for teachers to work with a whole raft of children it was using on a Buster Keaton picture. Gladys was teaching then at Long Beach Junior College. Once she had worked on the MGM lot, she asked for and got released from her college contract and she's taught the movie moppets ever since.

CFA Delivers $30,000 Planning Loan To East Stroudsburg

Consulting Engineers To Be Hired

A CHECK for close to $30,000 yesterday was presented to East Stroudsburg officials for plans and specifications for immediate and long-range borough betterment plans. The money is in the form of a non-interest bearing loan.

It was the first check of its kind ever presented to a community by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Presentation Made

Presentation of the money was made by David Walker, regional administrator of the Federal agency, and Leslie Doidge, regional director of the Community Facilities Administration, a division of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

On hand to receive the check at Borough Hall were Mayor Jesse Flory, Council President Harold Wiggins and J. H. Stoner, borough flood rehabilitation coordinator.

The Federal officials made it clear that presentation of the money indicated the Government's faith in the rehabilitation of the flood-stricken community.

Stoner said the borough's recently-organized planning commission would meet tonight to discuss spending the money and the engaging of consulting engineers.

Funds earmarked

The money will be used for the preparation of plans for an improved water filtration plant, sewage system and for street reconstruction.

Borough officials have repeatedly stressed that the money will be used for planning purposes alone.

Stoner also reported a borough streets survey would be started today by Edward C. Hess, borough engineer, and Henry Lesoine, streets superintendent.

Meanwhile, an area engineer for the State Department of Forests and Waters is expected in the area sometime this week to make recommendations relative to temporary flood control.

Controls Needed

Stoner said the engineer is coming here as a result of a discussion he had sometime ago with T. H. Mathew, chief engineer of the Department of Forests and Waters.

Mathew, in turn, met with the department secretary in Harrisburg Tuesday of this week and discussed the urgency of the need for temporary controls along Broadheads Creek at strategic residential areas, Stoner said.

Water Line Broken By Bulldozer

A BULLDOZER was blamed last night for a break in a two-inch line in the Delaware Water Gap water system.

Workmen who labored late into the night hoped to have the break repaired by morning.

Borough officials called upon the State Highway Department sometime ago to tear up a piece of road so that the borough could repair a leaky water line, it was explained.

When motor vehicles became mired in the torn up section, the road was temporarily blocked off, a borough official said.

On Tuesday, he continued, the Highway Department ripped up the section again to put in a stone fill. However, the bulldozer dug too deeply and ripped out the pipe, he said.

The broken two-inch line connects a main at Cherry Creek Bridge and another at the Delaware Water Gap Cemetery.

THE KIWANIS Club of Stroudsburg leads a list of organizations joining with the Chamber of Commerce in the forthcoming watershed conference. The area covered at the noon meeting next Wednesday will be the Upper Delaware River Basin with representatives of Wayne and Pike Counties joining with Monroe County.

Kiwanis President Dettlef Hansen announced that the club would assemble at the Penn-Stroud at noon for its weekly meeting. Walter McCalland will serve as program chairman for the illustrated presentation and outline of the proposed watershed association.

Among the experts present for the meeting will be Lloyd E. Parlin, president of the Pennsylvania Forestry Association. The Association has been a prime mover in the watershed movement along with the Chamber of Commerce, Department of Forests and Waters and the Department of Commerce in Harrisburg.

The Stroudsburg meeting is one of 18 scheduled throughout the Commonwealth. Plans call for the 18 watershed association to form into a statewide Watershed Council.

Stroud Union Schools Set Losses At $77,000

A progress report on flood cleanup given by Groner showed that "we have cleaned Morey school out to the best of our ability." Water which came into the high school gymnasium, the superintendent said, was "water from the roof which was perfectly clear and not muddy."

The water was forced into the gym, he said, because storm sewers had been filled by heavy runoff from rains. The gymnasium floor will have to be torn up, water pumped from beneath it and replaced, Groner said.

The flood, Groner said, has made overcrowded conditions worse in local schools. The board authorized the superintendent to rent one classroom each in St. John's Lutheran Church and in the Stroudsburg Methodist Church and a possible second room in St. John's. Basement rooms in the Morey School "cannot possibly" be ready until the second semester, Groner said.

Also lost due to the flood were the textbooks and other supplies stored at the Morey School building, Groner reported.

All Stroud Union schools played important parts in aiding during the disaster, Groner said; the high school as registration and relocation center; Clearview as headquarters for the CAP and doctors giving shots. Analamink school, he said, "was like an island of mercy—the one place where the people could go for a time."

Revised Calendar

The board approved a revised school calendar for the 1955-56 year. Due to the emergency, the board postponed opening date for the schools to next Tuesday, Sept. 20.

The new calendar begins with that opening date, cuts the Christmas vacation by one day, removes a holiday on Feb. 24, cuts another day from the Easter vacation (and extends the school year to Thursday, June 14. Baccalaureate services will be held on Sunday, June 10.

Mrs. Mary Jane Snyder, Stroudsburg, was hired as a substitute music teacher for grade school pupils, by the board at a salary of $266 per month for a 10-month period. Mrs. Linda Pipher was approved as a substitute teacher on call by the district, Mrs. Edna H.

Monti, Stroud Township, was hired as a part-time nurse at a salary of $1,050 yearly. Anna Stem was named chairman of the high school English department. She fills a vacancy created by the resignation of William Kohn.

Bids Opened

Bids on a refrigerator and a truck to be used to transport food between schools in the hot lunch program being started this year were opened by the board.

A. B. Wyckoff Inc. won the contract for a 27 cubic foot refrigerator on a low bid of $505 with a $200 allowance for the district's used refrigerator.

Two bids on the truck needed to haul food were received. Penn-Dell Dairy was awarded the contract on a bid of $300 for a 1949 model truck.

The selection of a fitting memorial will forever stand as a tribute to the departed loved one.

Liquid Spray Used On Lawns As Fertilizer

By David G. Bareuther
AP Real Estate Editor

IF GRASS GROWS on your furnace next winter, you may be interested to know that many fuel oil dealers now use their tank trucks during the summer to spray fertilizer on lawns. The mixture they use, 12-8-4, a liquid combination of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, is supposed to make grass grow on a billiard ball.

Of course, the idea of any dress of this getting into your fuel supply is preposterous, but there's nothing funny about the way the oil men are treating lawns. In fact, there's an organization in New York called Liquidlawn, Inc., which keeps itself busy showing oil dealers from coast to coast how they can use their delivery trucks and hose lines off season.

Values Differ

This strikes us as an interesting development because of the importance of a lawn to the value of a home. Appraisers recognize this. John C. Tylen, for example, who heads Previews, Inc., an international organization which specializes in luxury properties, contends that if you let your lawn "brown out" and run to weeds, the chances are that the value of your property will be far less than you'd like to believe.

"A compact, green lawn," Tylen told us, "is an indication of the general upkeep and value of a home. Unsightly crabgrass and starved-looking bald spots suggest a wrong side of the tracks atmosphere."

Many homeowners, Tylen added, underestimate the real, as well as the intangible values of well-placed trees, shrubs and lawns. "These," he said, "are often the very things that raise an otherwise ordinary home above the average in appearance and market price."

Flood Damage Deduction

Uncle Sam seems to agree with this. The recent hurricanes and floods in the East prompted the Internal Revenue Bureau to make a new interpretation of Code Section 165(c) (3) to include "casualties" to lawns, trees and shrubs. You can get an income tax reduction for such damage by supplying "before and after" appraisals or photographs and bills that will substantiate your loss.

The spreading popularity of air conditioning has brought new importance to lawns and shade trees. A house does not get the heat gain from the sun's reflection from a green lawn that it gets from a paved terrace or browned stubble. So the fuel dealers, interested in promoting air conditioning, have a double educating job on good lawns.

It seems to add truth to that joke about the most ardent do-it-yourself fans taking their exercise on the golf course while they hire professionals to take care of their lawns.

Machine Keeps Tabs

Nevertheless, the do-it-yourself movement seems to be coming along just fine. It's so big now that it takes electronic brains to keep track of it. The Central Building Supply, Inc., of Baltimore and Washington, D. C., recently installed IBM punch-card accounting machines to tell by teletype how many boards and nails they had in stock.

William Gouline, head of the firm, said they were getting to a point where their order-filling system was a day or two behind transactions and frequently they would be oversold on some items and lose sales on others when their inventory books did not reflect new shipments just received.

It looks like success of the fix-up movement is now in the cards.

Cleaner For Tile

TILE MEN offer a cleaner which takes grime out of the plaster between old tiles. You brush the solution into the plaster with a toothbrush to get it clean. Then you keep the plaster clean by using the solution on a terrycloth rag when you wipe the tile.

Insulate Cold Pipes

AS A safeguard against freezing, cold water lines should be insulated. This also prevents moisture from condensing on the outside of the pipe and dripping on the floor.

DESIGN C-355. This attractive plan, designed for a corner lot, has an attached garage and drive-in from the side. The combination living-dining room occupies the corner, with its dining area facing the side street and a large picture window in the living room facing the front. The living room also includes a fireplace, vestibule screen, and a large coat closet.

There is a full basement, but space is available in one end of the kitchen for an automatic washer and dryer. In addition there are three bedrooms, all with wardrobes type closets, a linen cabinet and a bathroom with two lavatories and a dressing table.

Frame construction is used with wide siding and vertical siding in the front gable. The floor area is 1402 square feet, and cubage is 26,638 cubic feet, not including the garage.

Lady Architects (She Says) Would Plan Better Homes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

THIS NATION needs more women architects. Or maybe the men in rebuttal would like to answer this question: Are women and children ignored when architects and builders (men) get together and plan a home?

Just because the planners give the ladies a washing machine and maybe even a dish washer, they think they've satisfied the distaff side.

But what about the growing family? The ladies are getting fed up, or so it seems. One young home seeker had this to say:

Not For Families
"The trouble is the so-called low-cost home is not being built for families. Builders plan houses that are adequate for couples and maybe even bachelors in spite of all the ballyhoo. But women and children take a back seat."

The glamor of today's "budget" home is wearing off even before the house has settled. Mom doesn't mind doubling up the youngsters in bedrooms, and figuring out whether the dining "el" should become a nursery for the new baby. Bad enough, but she can manage. But when it comes to the mathematical equation of trying to stuff more things into a closet than the closet will hold, that's something else again.

What Women Want
What women want is . . . More space for clothes (or where would architects suggest putting 4 or 5 little snow suits, boots, hats, umbrellas, raincoats.) . . . A good eating area, not snack benches or a little corner in the kitchen or living room called a "dining area."

Equipment storage space (a place to put sleds, skates, toys, skis, wading pools and dad's fishing poles, gun archery equipment, croquet set in the model home's tid-bit cellar.)

Space for travel equipment (today's family acquires coolers, sandwich boxes, thermoses, picnic baskets, car beds and car seats.)

Bigger Kitchens
More room in the kitchen (this is the age of appliances and every kitchen is loaded with broilers, blenders, sandwich grilles, waffle machines. The model home kitchen utilizes every inch of space)

Many Homes Need Two Bathrooms

WHILE MANY interesting arrangements for compartmentizing of plumbing fixtures in multi-access bathrooms have been developed, the best arrangement for the average family is to provide two separate bathrooms.

Two bathrooms or two bathrooms with an additional powder room are fast becoming the standard for housing, according to the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

In homes with several children additional fixtures may be required. Twin lavatory installations in bathrooms help to speed early morning traffic as well as doing much to smooth family routine during the evening rush hours.

Colored Fixtures

The two most pronounced trends in bathroom planning, the Bureau reports are the provision of adequate storage space in bathrooms and the use of colored plumbing fixtures.

It is wise to provide space for bathroom linen and cleaning supplies as well as hamper space for soiled linen and clothes.

Colored plumbing fixtures add glamour and charm to the bathroom and powder room. Because they add but little to the overall cost, when spread over the period of a mortgage, they are a prudent investment to insure the maximum resale value of the house.

In planning a bathroom, it is well to take advantage of the newest developments in plastic surfacing, wall papers, wood finishes, structural glass, and plastic or clay tiles for wall coverings. With easy-to-clean mar-proof surfaces, wiping with a moist cloth restores that "neat as a pin" look.

Red As Accent Color

MANY women like to use red as an accent color in kitchens. It lends life and gaiety to less interesting surfaces.

Save Paint By 'Sizing' Surfaces

SURFACES which are relatively porous soak up large amounts of ordinary paint. Sizes or sealers have the faculty of "bridging" the pores, or filling them at the surface thus reducing the suction. As a consequence, these coatings are helpful in saving paint and in producing finishes of uniform appearance. The process of using them is spoken of as "sizing".

Many sizes for plaster are essentially water solutions of glue or dextrin. In some cases, thin varnishes and lacquers are used. In order to combine opacity and sealing in the same coat, pigmented sealers are often utilized.

Color Terms Are Defined For Novice

UNLESS you know the language of color it is difficult to understand and apply much of the wonderful information available. Here is a list of color terms used by the experts. Study them carefully. . . then paste this little glossary in the front of your decorating scrapbook.

Hue: A pure color without black or white added.

Tint: A hue with white added.

Shade: A hue with black added.

Tone: A hue with black and white added.

Value: Lightness or darkness. Intensity: Brightness or dullness. Color: A general term applied to the entire family of hues, tints, shades and tones.

House-Hugging Tree Can Prove To Be Real Wrecker

A HOUSE-HUGGING TREE can be a real home wrecker. A favorite spot for tree seeds to lodge is close to the foundation wall of a house. They seem to thrive there. If left alone, a tiny tree soon will pop up.

This both amuses and amazes many home owners and not infrequently they treat the tree as a personal pet. But as the years go by, the pet may grow into a monster, warns a representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co.

Unless removed when they are very small, wall-side trees often cause considerable damage. Their growing roots have smashed many sturdy stone and cement foundations.

The trees should be moved as soon as they appear, or at least before they grow more than a foot above the ground. The smaller the tree, the easier it is to remove.

As the tree grows in size and strength, the job becomes increasingly difficult.

Brown Traces Early Days Of Schools

DR. ROBERT Brown, retired superintendent of the Stroudsburg public schools, was guest speaker at the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel yesterday afternoon.

The guest speaker, presented by Charles F. Grace, program chairman, was a charter member and identified with the club 22 years. He spoke on "Education and Schools."

Dr. Brown traced the early days of education and schools in the community noted the rapid changes and the problems faced in the great increase of pupils at this time.

First School

The first school was a small log building at the top of the hill near the Stroudsburg Cemetery. It was operated only three months during the winter. The cost of education was to furnish wood to keep it warm. Daniel Stroud, president of the board of trustees, donated the lot and gave $250 in cash, a large sum in those days.

Later, the Academy, located at the rear of the Shull property, Main St., was started in 1820. There was so little interest in schools that instead of endeavoring to raise money for a school, it was centered on a new church which was used for various religious denominations as well as for a school.

Dr. Brown told about Ira B. Newman, whom he declared one of the finest teachers of all time. He served from 1829 to 1839 when he was dismissed because the trustees disagreed with his abolitionist policies. He was so popular the school was crowded with children from many areas who found it difficult to find housing.

Started Teaching In 1904

The speaker said he started teaching 51 years ago this month. At graduation, he was one of 13 students to complete the course out of a class which had 43 members the first year.

Speaking of markings in the early days, he said the list was posted in the postoffice, later published in the weekly newspaper, but eventually were given on cards. He also illustrated public opinion by telling of an election in 1896 when people challenged the teaching of music in the schools. Music won, however, he said.

After much argument, formation of an orchestra was permitted, but it met after school for rehearsals and at no cost to the school district.

In the early days, the speaker said, children went to school just as long as they pleased, many leaving to take jobs. There were more boys than girls in this category.

He compared those conditions with the tremendous increase in pupils today which forms one of the greatest problems to care for and also to plan for the future.

Education today was pictured by Dr. Brown as the most powerful and potent force in the world. When thinking of education the speaker declared religion must not be forgotten as it is the basis on which our country's ideals were based.

Willhoite Returns

William P. Wells, first president, presided.

Dr. Earl Willhoite, who had been on leave all summer, was welcomed back and led the singing with Numa J. Snyder at the piano. Wells welcomed Kiwanians Bill Nixon, of Allentown, and Wilmer Francis, of Scranton to the club, also Cliff Eden, father-in-law of J. T. Campbell, and Edward Steinhauer, of Stroudsburg.

Elwood Hintze, second vice president, and Dr. C. W. Dupree, immediate past president, will represent the Stroudsburg club at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania District in Philadelphia the first three days next week.

Army Corps Announces Developments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—New developments which may help man explore and live in frozen wastes of the Far North or the Antarctic subcontinent were disclosed by the Army Corps of Engineers today.

They include:

1. An electronic crevasse detector and electric trail markers which, for the first time, make it possible to travel the ice and snow deserts safely in the long winter nights as well as by daylight.

2. The discovery that tunneling under polar ice and snow is surprisingly practical and may be a cheap and easy means of providing a limitless supply of shelter.

Mining of Snow

3. The bare possibility that the mining of snow may some day prove to be a source of electric power.

Army engineers out of the big air base at Thule have conducted 21 survey projects on the Greenland ice cap within the last year. The Defense Department attaches particular significance to the work in view of the increasing strategic importance of polar areas, the mineral wealth that may be hidden there and the construction of early warning radar systems which require sending unprecedented numbers of survey parties into uncharted areas.

BARRETT — Robert Triola, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jurgens of Canadensis, will enter Temple University School of Technology, Philadelphia, Sept. 26. He is a graduate of Barrett High School, Class of 1955.

Navy Invites H. S. Seniors To Take Tests

THE TENTH annual competitive examination for high school seniors who desire to attend college and train for careers as naval officers will be held Dec. 10 throughout the nation, it was announced by P. J. Dolan, BMC, recruiting in charge of the local Navy Recruiting Station. Applications are now available at the Navy Recruiting Office but Chief Dolan pointed out that they must be received by Nov. 19.

Successful candidates will start their naval careers in colleges or universities across the country during 1956, with substantial financial assistance from the government. After a normal college education, graduates will be commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps for active duty with the fleet for a period of three years.

Chief Dolan said all male citizens of the U. S. between the ages of 17 and 21 are eligible to apply for the NROTC aptitude test. Persons who attain a qualifying score will be given the Navy's rigid midshipman physical examination next February. From the pool of qualified candidates remaining, approxi-

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Bring the last rose of summer has its sorrows as well as its joys. Daily the number of college students in town grows less and the ones who are left go around humming "What's this dull town to me?" and counting the days until they, too, will be gone.

Specially sorrowful is the plight of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College students. October still seems an eternity away to them and the fun has gone out of summer jobs and summer vacations alike. This business of kids hating to go back to school has been greatly exaggerated.

The Stroudsburg high students are sort of rattling around, too, looking wistful with no pep meeting and no band for the football game tonight. This isn't to say that they won't be in even more of a fever for school to be over come next Spring; but meanwhile young people, especially it seems, like all things in their proper season.

Meanwhile parents are getting a little disgruntled, too. To them this enforced delay in the opening of school seems like an ideal time for the youngsters to help around the house, to practice their music, to do some of the chores there wasn't time for during the summer-time.

That the youngsters don't see it that way is a source of friction. Late to bed and late to rise is another. In fact, it's a good thing that next week is bound to Going places! That's been the theme of our Wyckoff store for eighty years and it's been the theme of our Wyckoff Travel Bureau ever since the day it became an actual phase of our Wyckoff service. Right this minute, for instance, Edna Brockman is planning on getting us all away from the ruins we're in, even though we can't afford a flight to Europe or a month along the Riviera. Edna's suggestions are a visit to the Allentown Fair next Thursday—a week from today; and a trip to New York to see Fred Waring's new show on Saturday, October 1st.

The Allentown Fair bus will leave the DL and W Station in East Stroudsburg at 9:45 next Thursday and the front of Wyckoff's at 10. The return trip will be made at 8 p.m., and the ticket both ways will cost only $2. A very reasonable fee for a day of fun, wouldn't you say?

The trip to New York will cost $6.50—and this too is very inexpensive, for it includes fare down and back and a very fine reserved seat at the Waring show, "Hear, Hear!" It seems that October 1st has been designated Monroe County Day by Mr. Waring, and we at Wyckoff's would like to see a huge crowd of neighbors and friends on hand to cheer the Pennsylvanians in their production. This much we know, it'll be a fine show... the Pennsylvanians have never yet given a poor performance, either on TV, records, or concert stage—and they never will. Not with perfectionist Fred "batoning" their efforts!

We mention these two trips because we think Edna Brockman deserves a great deal of credit for arranging these pleasant, inexpensive pastimes... after all, a great many of us rarely get out of town for the mere sake of having us a time. So "Hear, Hear!" and make it a point to get your tickets just as soon as possible or maybe you'll be Waring a disappointed heart on your sleeve!

Don't know why I should care one way or another, but I'm as thrilled about Marine Captain Richard McCutcheon winning the $61,000 jackpot on cooking as I'd be if I myself had won. In fact, I even feel starry-eyed about Revlon's making it all possible—and I'm going to celebrate with one of their Living Lipsticks sold in our Beauty Salon. As a matter of record, the president of Revlon was so humanly likeable in congratulating the winner, the awarding of that five-figure sum will, in the final analysis, probably be the least expensive advertising the company has ever done... There was a time when a woman's girle was an atrocity—an instrument of torment and torture. And a brassiere was an unimaginative covering that, fortunately, was concealed by outer garments. Today, thank heaven, styles have changed. Foundation garments are as lovely to look at as they are comfortable to wear, and some of them are actually works of art. A lovely new Breathinbra is before me as I type—and I'm here to state that it's about as lovely a bra as I've ever seen for the unbelievably low price of 3.95. "Bandeau" is lightly padded—just enough to accentuate one's figure pleasantly without giving one a comic cartoon outline. The cups and diamond shaped separation between are of sheer, reinforced nylon net, delicately frosted with lacy white embroidery. The heavy nylon elastic band is ashimmer with tiny highlights that remind one of stardust on a crisp night, and the straps are of soft nylon fabric that will not discolor, as do so many bra supports. Frankly, this is my idea of beauty in a bra, at a price far less than women expect to pay for such quality. The size range is 32 to 36 in both A and B cups, and its "Breathinbra," remember—the bra you can breathe in because it's a well fitted garment and not a yoke.

RILEY

Sports Editor

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY completed its football training session at Harry's Farm on Tuesday by administering a good licking to Temple University in what was termed a "private scrimmage". Rutgers completely dominated play against the Philadelphia school, but the football activity was secondary to this reporter, who was paying his first visit to the plush layout along the shores of the Delaware River since that body of water rose up in its wild anger last month.

The farm, owned by Harry Freedman, suffered an estimated $40,000 damage and its almost unbelievable that Rutgers could train here for its fourth consecutive year. Those who visited this establishment many times during the last couple of years, at which time some of the nation's top boxers worked here in preparation for big bouts, will be surprised at the various changes brought on by the water.

All the cottages have been washed off their foundations one of which went splashing down the river and another moved almost intact for a distance of 250 feet. Water rose to the ceiling of Freedman's house and covered the goal posts on the football practice field. The water rushed into the dining room of the main camp building to a depth of three feet, and all only days before Rutgers, approximately 50 strong, was scheduled to invade the establishment.

Debris and mud was everywhere, but the buildings were cleaned out and the field cleared of all trash and Rutgers has been going through its practice sessions without incident for the past 10 days. Meals have been served on time and accommodations have been adequate, although maybe not as plush as in past years, and everyone appeared satisfied. Harry's Farm is one of the most severely flooded places this writer has seen since the tragedy.

Freedman's home is practically ruined. Floors are buckled and virtually all equipment and machinery victim of the rapid waters. Like Shawnee Inn and Country Club, plans call for Harry's Farm to be bigger and better than ever, although Freedman stated that he never plans to return to the role of host to boxers. Work is scheduled to begin on restoring the beauty of the establishment immediately and be completed by next spring.

The scrimmage between Rutgers and Temple lasted for approximately three hours, with every member of each squad seeing action. Coaches were on the field with both teams and no score was kept, but the red shirted Rutgers contingent appeared to be heads and shoulders above the Owls from Philadelphia's N. Broad St. Viewing Temple for the first time yesterday, I would suggest that Owl fans brace themselves for a long and rugged campaign.

Rutgers has a young team, many of the stalwarts being sophomores. Coach Harvey Harmon summed up the team's chances with a quiet, "They'll be better than last year." Rutgers sported an undefeated freshman contingent in 1954 and Harmon is hopeful that many of his sophomores this year will fill gaps from graduation and other gaps that have appeared like giant holes in the New Brunswick, N. J. ranks for the past several seasons.

During a conversation with Freedman this reporter learned that Paul Andrews, once a rising young heavyweight, wanted to return to the farm to train, but went elsewhere when he learned that there was no more fight camp in this area. I also learned that Sammy Cherin, Jimmy Carter's former trainer, is now a motel operator in New Jersey. The ring, in which the fighters worked out when the camp was in operation, is one of the things now hanging up to dry at this layout along the banks of the now peaceful Delaware River.

Freedman's plans now call for bridge, good times, outings, picnics and dinners rather than fistie battles and gatherings of sportsmen, although Rutgers, dear to the heart of the owner, will always be welcome at this establishment located at the foot of the Pocono Mountains. Boxing and many of the buildings are gone, but Harry's Farm and football will always be here at this resort of more than 200 acres. Even under present conditions Freedman fed 116 hungry football players on Tuesday, as both Temple and Rutgers ate here before the later began its homeward journey.

League Ready For Season

SLATINGTON—Football schedules, both varsity and junior varsity, was the chief topic of discussion here at the regular Autumn meeting of the Lehigh Valley Scholastic Athletic League at Slatington High School last night.

Football officials and admission prices to league games this season were also discussed.

Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager, announced that Stroudsburg would maintain its usual prices of 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for students.

Ruling

The league also upheld an earlier ruling against the use of metal clippings. Officials also discussed the annual basketball tournament to be held here in Slatington at Christmas, East Stroudsburg, Summit Hill, Weatherly and Jim Thorpe were invited to participate again.

Northampton High was recognized as the baseball and track champion. Alfred W. Munson, principal at Stroudsburg High, also attended last night's meeting.

Serfass announced the Stroudsburg "Scrub" schedule following the meeting. The Mountaineers will use varsity reserves instead of a true junior varsity football squad this season.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves overpowered the New York Giants 9-2 tonight with a 15-hit assault highlighted by two-run homers by Del Crandall and George Crowe—on four pitchers.

Willie Mays hit his 44th and 45th home runs for the Giants.

Cardinals Blank Dodgers, 3-0

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14 (AP)—Tom Poholsky hurled a three-hitter tonight as the St. Louis Cardinals handed National League champion Brooklyn its fourth straight defeat, 3-0, but consolation for the Dodgers was the steady manner in which Carl Erskine pitched in defeat.

The little right-handed ace, bothered a considerable time by arm trouble, showed Manager Walt Alston he could count on him for a start in the World Series.

Senators Halt Cleveland's Flag Drive

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The pesky Washington Senators halted Cleveland's rush toward the American League pennant tonight with a thrilling, come-from-behind 3-2 victory that gave Ray Narleski his first defeat of the season.

The defeat narrowed Cleveland's lead over the second place New York Yankees to one game, but the clubs were all even in the vital loss column. The Yankees have two more games to play than Cleveland.

The run that shattered Narleski's nine-game winning streak came across in the eighth on a single by Pete Runnels, a sacrifice and a sharply hit double to left by rookie Jose Valdivielso.

Lost in the Indian gloom was a new streakout record set by starter Herb Score and a magnificent clutch relief job by Narleski an inning before the Runnels-Valdivielso combination wrecked him.

The winning pitcher was rookie Pedro Ramos, who delighted the crowd of 7,928 by stopping the Indians with one hit in the final two innings after he had scored the tying run as a pinch runner for starter Mickey McDermott.

New Mark

Score struck out nine, raising his season's total to 235. Thus he broke the record of 227 strikeouts by a major league rookie set back in 1911 by Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Washington, which has been the Indians' Achilles Heel all season, wound up its season's series with Cleveland ahead 13-9. No other club won a season series from the league leaders.

Tonight's battle was a tight, tense one from the beginning. Washington got away in front in the third when McDermott got the first of his two singles and Eddie Yost followed with a triple into the left field corner.

With two out in the fourth, Larry Doby reached for an outside pitch and punched it into left field for a double. Jim Hegan's smack over the shortstop's head brought Doby in with Cleveland's tying run.

The Indians took a 2-1 lead in the seventh on a single by George Strickland, a sacrifice by Score and another single by Al Smith.

The Senators lost their number two catcher, Ed Fitzgerald, in the fourth when a foul ball off his bat bounced up and cut his lip.

DeMarco Uses Vicious Onslaught To Score First Round Technical Knockout Over Vejar

BOSTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Tony DeMarco, ex-welterweight champion, scored a technical knockout over "Chico" Vejar in 2:40 of the first round tonight with a vicious onslaught on his bewildered opponent.

DeMarco weighed 145½, Vejar 151½.

DeMarco knocked down the 24-year-old Stamford, Conn., boy after a minute with a right to the midsection and left hook to the head for a count of nine.

Vejar got to his feet, half backing, half staggering around the ring as DeMarco pursued him relentlessly. Tony nailed Vejar with combinations before a right to the body and right to the head sent Vejar sprawling in DeMarco's corner.

Referee Tommy Rawson signalled it was all over as Vejar got to his feet.

Vejar, who had a slight cut over his right eye, stood shaking his head in his corner as the official decision was announced—unable to believe the sudden end which had overtaken him.

The nationally televised Boston Garden battle scheduled for 10 rounds was DeMarco's first since he lost the welter title to Carmen Basilio at Syracuse June 10.

Bangor Set For Opening Grid Battle

One Slater On Sidelines With Injury

BANGOR — Bangor High School's 1955 football team will open its 10-game schedule tomorrow night when it entertains the Palmerton High School Blue Bombers here on the Memorial Park Field.

Head coach Granville Evans has been drilling his charges hard in preparation for this first game with the assistance of Dave Pritchard, J. L. Williams, and Paul Wagner, all assistant coaches.

Coach Evans has indicated that the starting lineup for Friday's contest will include Sammy Heald, a junior, and Anthony Ruggiero, senior letterman, at the end posts; Charley Woolley, huge junior, and Kermit LaBar, senior letterman, at the tackle positions; Bobby Butz, scrappy junior, and Richard Marinelli, hard-charging three-year veteran senior, at guards; and Don Evans, senior letterman, at the pivot.

Backfield

In the backfield, it will probably be J. L. "Jabby" Williams, a junior, and Jimmy Freeman, a senior, sharing the quarterback duties; Dale Miller, huge plunging junior, at full back; and veteran senior Jack Stenlake and a pair of swift-running juniors, Bobby Finelli and Glenwood Heard, sharing the half-back posts.

Evans has also indicated that a senior, Keith Jones, and a junior, Mike Danko, will see action at the terminal posts. Jim Warrick and Lew Martocci, both seniors, will back up the tackle positions. Don Farole and Ken Roberts, seniors, and Bobby Hill, a junior, may see action at guard while Evie Williams and Joe Rocco, both seniors, provide depth at center.

The Slaters will probably have to go with the six backs previously named. Reserve strength in the backfield is somewhat limited.

Bangor's fortunes were somewhat brightened in the past week with the return to action of Woolley, Evans and Farole. Woolley, out with a bruised leg, Evans with a bruised back muscle, and Farole, with an injured ankle, have been inactive for a week to two weeks, but seem to be fit and ready for opening action.

Inactive

The only member of the squad now inactive is sophomore end, Mason Mabius, who is suffering from neuralgia of the left leg.

The Slaters are somewhat hampered by a lack of reserve strength and depth this year with the smallest squad in the past decade reporting for practice. Only 45 candidates reported when practice sessions began in August. Since then, a few have dropped out, but, with the start of school, a few more have also reported out to compensate for those lost. Presently the squad stands at approximately 45. Coach Evans, however, is confident that, barring injuries, the seasoned veterans will provide the necessary spark.

'Babe' Enters New Home

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 14 (AP)—With a wisecrack to a golfing caddy "Want to play nine?" Babe Zaharias was placed in a wheelchair today and whisked to her new dream home.

The Babe arrived by plane from Galveston where she was treated for her second bout with cancer. Clad in pajamas and a house coat, she limped down the plane steps accompanied by her friend, Betty Dodd, who also is a star pro golfer.

Crowd

"I feel good—better than I have felt all week," the smiling Babe told the crowd of 100 persons on hand to greet her.

Mayor Curtis Hixon was on hand to extend the city's best wishes to the Babe who has been told she must remain off her feet for at least two months to allow X-ray treatments to work.

Her big new home, in which she never lived, was the main thing that brought the Babe back here.

Season Tickets To Be Available At Special Booth At East Stroudsburg's First Contest

SEASON TICKETS are still available for East Stroudsburg High School football games, it was announced last night by Lewis R. Hastie, faculty athletic manager.

Tickets may be purchased at the N. Courtland St. school during the day and will also be on sale at tomorrow's opening game between the Cavaliers and Slatington.

A special booth will be used to sell the season duets at Memorial Stadium tomorrow, Hastie added.

The tickets will sell for five dollars and will insure the purchaser of the same seat at all five home games played by the Cavaliers.

Season tickets cost only 50 cents more than regular tickets over the span of an entire season. The extra cost guarantees the same seat for the entire campaign.

The Cavaliers meet Slatington, Bangor, Wilson Borough, Port Jervis and Nazareth at Memorial Stadium in the 1955 campaign.

Regular adult tickets are priced at 90 cents and students will be admitted to home games for 40 cents.

Zernial's four-run smash in the eighth inning, his second homer of the day and 28th of the season, broke a 3-3 tie at his favorite Fenway Park playground.

Walker Cuppers, College Stars Take Over Initiative In National Amateur Golf Tourney

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 14 (AP)—Walker Cuppers Harvie Ward Jr. and Joe Conrad and three hotshot collegians seized the initiative in the National Amateur golf tournament today as double eliminations reduced the field to 16.

Two more 18-hole rounds tomorrow set up the weekend showdown, with semifinals Friday and finals Saturday.

Ward, off and flying after his narrow extra-hole escape yesterday, cut loose a birdie barrage to oust 250-pound Gordon Stott of New York, five and three, and 19-year-old Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., six and four.

Conrad, a red-haired Air Force lieutenant who holds the British Amateur crown, eliminated Edwin Collett Vane, the Yale captain-elect, four and three, and then downed Bob Gardner of West Orange, N. J., three and one, after being one down through the 10th.

However, both of the Walker Cup stars had to share the day's spotlight at the James River course with three eager college boys who produced some of the finest golf of the day.

They were Joe Campbell, the two-headed national college champion from Purdue University; Jake Howard, the imperturbable 19-year-old senior from the University of Georgia, and Hillman Robbins, 1954 intercollegiate champion from Memphis who lost only one hole in two rounds of play.

Most observers feel that the new champion will emerge from these five players.

Orioles Hold Pale Hose To Damaging Doubleheader Split

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—Lefty Bill Pierce quieted down the resurgent Baltimore Orioles on five hits and a 6-4 victory today, but only after they belted the Chicago White Sox 8-2 in the first game of a doubleheader and put them teetering on the brink of elimination from the American League pennant race.

Yanks Obtain Staley From Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 14 (AP)—Gerry Staley, veteran right handed pitcher, today was sold to the New York Yankees by the Cincinnati baseball club. He will report immediately.

Staley, who has won five and lost eight this season, was taken by the American League club via the waiver route.

He formerly was a star hurler for the St. Louis Cardinals, but has had two successive unimpressive seasons. The Redlegs obtained him last December from St. Louis in a trade involving several other players.

Staley started 18 times this year, pitched 2 complete games, and allowed 146 hits in 129 innings. He struck out 40 batters. He is 32.

Vet Gridder Quits Steelers

OLEAN, N. Y., Sept. 14 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers announced today that guard George Hughes, a five-year veteran of the National Football League, has retired.

Hughes who played in Pittsburgh last Sunday as the Philadelphia Eagles beat the Steelers 24-20 in an exhibition, will operate his hardware store in Norfolk, Va. Training grind he had intended to retire but decided to have another fling at pro ball.

Doubtful

Meanwhile, Pat Brady, the Steelers' star punter, underwent a foot operation in Pittsburgh as the result of an injury sustained in the Eagles game.

Legion Post Makes Plans To Rebuild

NEWFOUNDLAND — Their post home swept away by the Aug. 13 flood, members of Phillips-Zacharias-Phillips Post No. 859, American Legion, met in the Greene-Dreher-Sterling School here recently and took the first steps toward replacing the building.

The meeting was strangely reminiscent of a similar gathering about eight and one-half years ago when a group of veterans, many of whom had just returned from service in World War II, met in the same room to start from "scratch" to form the area's first American Legion post.

The post's early progress, termed "remarkable" by Legion officials from other areas, was indeed swift and sure. Post flag and colors were assured that first night, the gift of a citizen's organization that had functioned in the service men's behalf during the conflict. Less than a month later, arrangements were completed for the purchase of the Greentown Grange hall.

Back At "Scratch"

An Auxiliary unit followed shortly and, working hand in hand, the two organizations equipped the home, took their place in the scheme of community activities and added weight, however small, to the cause of the American Legion.

Now the post is back at "scratch". The roaring waters of the east branch of the Wallenpaupack Creek, swollen to record heights on Aug. 18, changed course, cut through a roadway, crashed into the Legion building and three residences, leaving 10 dead and complete destruction in its wake.

Discussion of a new building favored the acquisition of a used Quonset hut, which could be erected in a minimum of time and would be within the means of the post's limited cash assets.

A committee of three was appointed to survey possible sites and the discuss purchase of same with landowners. Commander Ellis Akers asked the committee, Allen Edwards, Welson Hector and

Rails Pace Market To Another High

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (P)—The stock market made a sprightly advance today when railroads came to life late in the session under a mild amount of buying.

Most of the rest of the strength in the market was on an individual basis. Motors as a group were higher and most aircrafts were up.

The steels were down a shade. Minus signs were widely scattered.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 90 cents at $179.90, the seventh straight new record high. Last Tuesday on the day after Labor Day the average hit its first new record high following the reaction that started July 25. It has edged up to new highs every day since.

Industrial High

The industrial component of the average gained $1.10 at a new high of $254.30, the railroads were up $1.50, and utilities remained unchanged.

There were 1,180 individual is-suces traded of which 484 were higher and 448 lower with 72 new highs and 12 new lows for the year scored.

Volume amounted to 2,750,000 shares as against 2,580,000 shares traded in yesterday's market.

Cuneo Press, yesterday's fifth most active issue up 1 1/4, topped the list today up 2 1/4 at 14 1/4 on 87,900 shares.

North Dakota has 5,235 miles of railroad.
